The U.S. Embassy and Berlitz Center partner for English Language Summer Camp

The U.S. Embassy and the Berlitz Center in Algiers and Oran are pleased to announce the eighth edition of the El Amel English Language Camp. The Camp targets economically disadvantaged students, aged 17-25, at various levels of English proficiency.

The 10-week El Amel Summer Camp will start the first week of July and end the second week of September. Participants will meet three days each week for two hours each day. In addition to studying English, they will practice public speaking and writing skills and participate in extracurricular activities. Expert Berlitz English Language instructors will teach the curriculum, and American guest speakers will augment the program. Selected students must commit to the full 10-week program. This year, the El Amel Summer Camp will take place in both Algiers and Oran.

The El Amel Summer Camp is completely free of charge, but slots are limited. Potential participants must apply via an online application and complete an online English aptitude placement test. Online applications must be completed by June 20. Berlitz and U.S. Embassy staff will interview selected applicants in the final stage of selection. Students will be notified upon selection.
